2 of the Best Ski Resorts for Families in 2016-2017

Skiing can be intimidating -- both skill-wise and money-wise -- especially if your family is new to the sport. Luckily, most ski resorts offer trails and programs for beginners, many of them tailored to children specifically. More ski resorts have begun to offer additional activities for families, too, both on and off the mountain, along with packages and promotional discounts for opportunities to save. These are our top picks for family ski resorts in 2016/2017.

Okemo Mountain Resort - Ludlow, Vt.

Okemo Mountain Resort is an all-season, destination resort that caters to new skiers with programs separated by age group: 3 (Little Dippers), 4 to 6 (Snow Stars) and 7 to 14 (Mountain Explorers). It also offers a mountain coaster, ice-skating, snow tubing and kids' snowmobiling, along with restaurants and Kids Night Out -- a childcare program that allows mom and dad to enjoy a romantic dinner on the mountain.

Beaver Creek Resort - Beaver Creek, Colo.

Lessons for skiing and snowboarding are just the beginning of the fun at Colorado's Beaver Creek Resort. The expansive resort also offers kids' programming via Beaver Creek Loves Kids and Beaver Creek Loves Teens, available at peak visitation times. Activities include pizza parties, arts and crafts, and excursions on the mountain. The fun continues with ice-skating, snowshoeing, themed events (don't miss WinterFest) and even a children's museum. There's certainly no shortage of lodging for families either, from vacation rentals to luxury hotels. Fun Fact: The Park Hyatt Beaver Creek Resort & Spa offers S'mores Happy Hours!
